HSE will have a virtual stand at the CIPD Festival of Work Event next week, offering resources and advice focused on the topic of Work-Related Stress

Offering more than the standard virtual experience, the CIPD Festival of Work will give you the opportunity to access world-class conference sessions, a free-to-attend exhibition to explore the latest products, services and interactive experiences - all in the comfort and safety of your own home.

On stand:

- Links to the HSE Stress Management Standards which underpin all of HSE's guidance
- Introduction to the Stress Indicator Tool which measures the attitudes and perceptions of employees towards work-related stress, provides anonymous feedback and is a quick and easy way to determine the extent to which work-related stress is a problem within an organisation. Analysing and understanding results from the tool can help develop an effective health and wellbeing strategy
- HSE Experts on-hand to live-chat with you throughout the three days
- Downloads and resources designed to help you start conversations with staff, such as our practical Talking Toolkit, will enable you to develop a culture of sharing and caring in your organisation
